

REFUGE POEM

FLAVIA REMEDIOS 10B

A restful robin finds refuge in a nest,
Where it lays atop its ruby chest.
A mysterious lady finds refuge in her home,
In a moss-filled forest where she lives alone.

A hedgehog finds refuge under some leaves,
Where it buries itself, trying not to be seen.
A sodden mouse finds refuge in a tree stump
Where it scavenges for food to make itself more plump.

From a great, stalking bear,
To a timid, sprinting hare,
Anything small or huge,
Always needs refuge.
